

BULLETS FLEW THICK AT DANCE

One Man Dying and Several Hurt When Boy Runs Amuck

Special to The World. BARTLESVILLE, Nov. 16.—Jim Andrews, 50, lies at the point of death with a bullet in his lung, his son Roy Andrews, 24, is dangerously injured with a bullet in his groin, a bullet wound in his neck and another in his ankle, and a woman and two men are reported to be slightly injured as the result of a shooting spree west of Bartlesville Tuesday night. George Noland, a half-grown boy, who is said to have said the shooting had not been captured several times following the shooting. According to eyewitnesses the shooting followed an assault by Lyle Noland, father of George Noland, upon Cecil Andrews, a 14-year-old boy. Noland, who was manager of a dance hall, had kicked the boy off the porch and then had struck him with a club, according to witnesses. The boy ran home and went immediately to the dance hall, where the son Roy proceeded to give Noland a licking, knocking him down twice. As Andrews stood over to pick up Noland from the ground, witnesses declare that George Noland opened fire with a revolver, one of the bullets striking Andrews in the thigh and the other in the foot. It is not known just when the elder Andrews was hit, but he fell with a bullet in his back under the right shoulder blade. The bullet penetrated the lung. After shooting Andrews Noland is said to have run into the street, where he opened fire on a man standing behind a motor car, said to be Ed Wheeler, and the latter is thought to have been hit, although he is said to have been a friend of the Noland who was seeking shelter from the bullets. A woman who was in the dance hall is also reported to have been slightly injured by a stray bullet and Lyle Noland is said to have been hit. After shooting at the man behind the car young Noland is said to have returned to where Roy Andrews was lying and shot him in the neck, the bullet going through his throat. George Noland succeeded in effecting his escape, as the dance hall is outside the city limits.

RED CROSS STARTS DRIVE

Prescribe No Quota But Out for All the Money Available.

Special to The World. ADA, Nov. 16.—Tuesday was set for the date on which the annual Red Cross roll call drive is to start. No quota was set, but the committee set out to get all the funds available in an effort to relieve the situation here among the poor classes. This county stands a chance to have a chapter of the Red Cross, provided sufficient funds are not provided to keep it in operation. The hundreds of demands on the local office have exhausted the funds and make it necessary to take immediate steps. All committees and officers were appointed last week and preliminary preparations for the drive made Monday. It will continue until November 25. The county and city has been mapped out and will be covered systematically.
